

Angie's Kettle Corn

It's slightly sweet, a little salty and a favorite at sporting events, street festivals and fairs. It's Angie's Kettle Corn, and it's available at Byerly's. Pick up a bag of this delicious treat – made right here in Minnesota – on your next visit to the store, recommends Judy Crocker, FoodE Expert at Byerly's Golden Valley.

Many Minnesota Vikings fans who have attended a home game during the past couple of years have already enjoyed the one-of-a-kind taste of Angie's Kettle Corn, the official kettle corn sold outside the Metrodome at all Vikings' home games.

The secret to Angie's Kettle Corn is not its ingredients, which includes a rather simple list of popcorn, oil, sugar and salt. Instead, the secret is how those ingredients are combined to create a sweet and salty treat that, put quite simply, can't be beat. And, compared to many snack foods, Angie's Kettle Corn is a good choice considering it contains no trans fatty acids, cholesterol or preservatives.

"Angie's Kettle Corn is a very flavorful snack," said Judy. "It is the perfect balance between salty and sweet."

If you have never tried Angie's Kettle Corn, stop by your local Byerly's today. You'll soon discover why fairgoers and Vikings fans line up for this treat wherever it is available.
